ABOUT TOWN:

Betty Gaunt celebrates 80 years

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

BETTY GAUNT (center) with daughters Diane Raglen and Jan Vine

Betty Bernadine Murray met Jack Gaunt while they were fellow students at Sacramento High School.

"We lived in Oak Park," recalled Betty, "and they had a recreation program there which held dances on a stage behind the old Oak Park library on Friday nights. Swing music was popular back then and everyone used to have a really good time."

After Betty and Jack were married and had started raising their family, they found a house they liked in West Sacramento and moved to this side of the river for good.

"One of the things I've always liked about West Sacramento," said Betty, "is that it's a little cooler than Sacramento in the summers. I think we get the sea breezes a little sooner, or at least it feels that way. West Sacramento was also a very good place to raise the children and I've really enjoyed the many years I've lived here."

Betty turns 80 years old next week and her family got together on Mother's Day to celebrate her birthday.

"My mother is a very special person," said daughter Jan, who is married to longtime West Sacramento resident Jim Vine. "She was an only child and when she was young, she lived for a time on a ranch. Since there were no neighbors close by to play with, she often entertained herself. One of my favorite stories is the time she dressed up her kittens and rolled them around in a baby carriage. She soon discovered that they all needed a bath, but instead of using bubbly warm water, she dipped them in oil. I'm told the result was hairless kittens."

Betty's husband, Jack, who worked in the auto parts business and was also an avid hunter and fisherman, passed away four years ago.

"My parents never missed any of our school activities or athletic events," remembered daughter Diane Raglen. "They were always there when we needed them, whether it was Bobbie Sox, Little League, swim meets, or high school sports, and that goes for all of the grandchildren, too."

Betty retired 25 years ago from her Water Resources job with the State of California. She has belonged to a West Sacramento dance club, still enjoys keeping track of her favorite sports teams, and she regularly attends ceramics classes twice a week with her friend, Joanne, who picks her up and delivers her back to her front door.

"I've had multiple sclerosis for some time now," explained Betty, "and it mostly affects my legs. I had to give up driving a few years ago, but I still manage to go shopping with my friend Doris and with the help of my cane and wheelchair, I actually get around pretty well. I've had a very good life and I certainly couldn't ask for more."

In addition to daughters Jan and Diane, Betty has a son, Bernie (and spouse Clarice), seven grandchildren, Lance Raglen (and spouse Jeanette), Laurie Link (and spouse Gary), Jack Vine (and spouse Lana), Janine Vine, John Vine (and spouse Andrea), and Gary and Greg Gaunt.

Betty also has six great-grandchildren: Cole and Connor Raglen, Michael Link, and Jacklyn, Jimmy, and Madeleine Vine.

Suspected pizza place robber arrested in Sacto

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A Sacramento man wanted for the November robbery of the West Sacramento Round Table Pizza Restaurant was arrested last month in Sacramento.

Steven William Hendrix, 21, was picked up and held for the West Sacramento warrant. A former short-time employee at the restaurant, he is suspected of robbing the restaurant Nov. 13, while one of the pair indicated he had a gun.

"He was arrested by Sacramento County Sheriff's duputies on our warrant," said Lt. Dave Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Dept. "He is being held at the Yolo County Jail."

A preliminary hearing was held April 23, and Hendrix faces a term of two to eight years on the charge of armed robbery.

City listens to plan to move railways, reclaim 500 acres of northern floodplain

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento staff presented the city council with more information on a long-term proposal to relocate the city's rail lines westward, and -- in a separate idea -- to move a levee and reclaim 500 acres of floodplain.

The plan to relocate rail lines from the riverfront area and Jefferson Blvd. corridor would cost an estimated $26 million, and calls for a new switching yard near the Yolo Causeway north of West Capitol Ave. Two new "run around" connections at Mikon and at Stone Blvd. would allow engine turning now done near Riske Ln. and Highway 275. The relocation is intended to ease development problems for the riverfront and Southport regions.

"It's for two reasons," said city council member Greg Potnick. "It's to free up land for potential development and to remove rail crossings from Jefferson Blvd."

Jefferson Blvd. serves as a major corridor for traffic to the Southport area, which is primed for major home building.

"I don't imagine this taking place any time sooner than 10 or 20 years," Potnick added.

A city staff report also discussed the possibility of moving the RD 537 levee in the city's north area, allowing the city to pursue the annexation of 500 acres of what is now floodplain in the north. Moving the levee would cost $16 million, the report states, and access to the new area would require a new $12 million rail underpass like the one at Harbor Blvd.

Patek said the land probably wouldn't be missed for its floodplain uses, but that the Army Corps of Engineers will have a chance to study the proposal and comment.

"That's not really in the flowpath (of river overflow)," he said. "It's kind of an eddy as it is."

He agreed with Patek that the rail relocation and levee relocation plans remain just long range ideas for the city to pursue.

"I certainly don't think this is in the immediate future," Patek commented. "We're just going to keep chipping away at it until the stars align and we can do it."

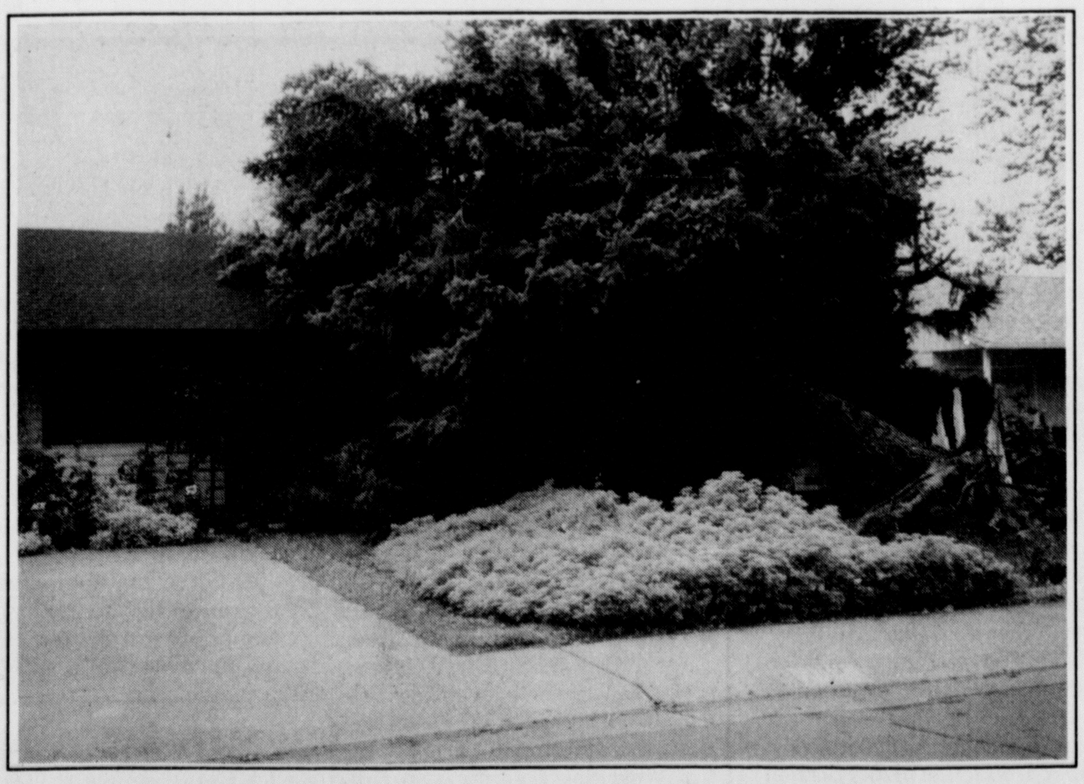

Windblown

A lot of folks found this month's unseasonable wind to be annoying.

But for some, like the owners of this Meadow Rd.-area home, the winds were a bit more than annoying.

Actually, the home suffered little apparent damage from this tree-versus-home collision.

Concrete plant back in front of city council

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A conditional use permit to build an asphalt and recylcling center near the Jefferson Blvd. corridor will return to the city council tonight.

The council, which voted 3-2 last month to reverse a planning commission decision and lay the groundwork to grant a permit for the plant, will deal with two issues related to Alegre Asphalt & Recycling. The plant is to be built near South River Rd. and 15th St., in an area zoned for future "downtown"-style development.

First, the council will have a chance to re-open a public hearing on the issue, scheduling it for June 2. The action comes in response to a petition and public protest against the council's earlier decision.

Second, in a separate agenda item, the council will have a chance to adopt new staff "findings" in support of allowing the plant. The council will not adopt the findings if it chooses to re-open the public hearing, explained city development director Stephen Patek.

This week in local government

The West Sacramento City Council will meet in public session at 7 p.m. tonight (Wednesday) for a busy agenda. The council will meet in its chambers at 2101 Stone Blvd. to consider the following items:

A proclamation recognizing May 15 as "Step Out for Seniors Day."

A proclamation declaring May 15 "A Woman's Health Day."

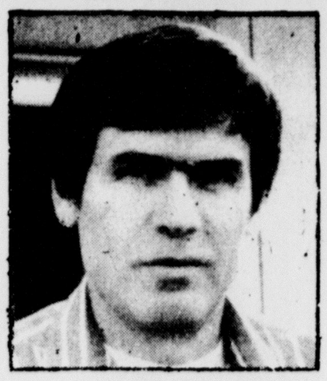

Public hearing to consider objetions to weed removal on certain parcels.

Consideration of a resolution accepting a public service ease-

Dan Quayle is running for president again. Yippee!

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

The last time I looked, Bill Clinton still had about two full years left as President of the United States of America, but believe it or not, politicians from both parties are already gearing up their campaigns to become his successor.

On the Democratic side there is Vice President Al Gore, who seems like a pretty nice guy, even if he is charisma-challenged, and former Senator Bill Bradley, who everyone admits is very smart, although most people seem to have paid more attention to him when he was dribbling a basketball for the New York Knicks.

On the Republican side, the field is much more crowded and interesting. To begin with, you have one of President Bush's sons, Governor George W. Bush of Texas, and although no one seems to know just where he actually stands on most of the issues, he promises to bring 'compassionate conservatism' to America and most pundits says he's the front-runner; Pat Buchanan, a political commentator and former speech writer for President Nixon who is very good at giving voice to the concerns of the far-right of his party; Arizona Senator John McCain, a former Vietnam POW who seems to have a genuine talent for sounding like a reasonable human being who listens to all sides of an issue; Congressman John Kasick, who scored points during the House of Representatives impeachment debates and who also is quite believable when he says what most Republicans like to hear, that government needs to drastically cut taxes; Former Governor LaMar Alexander of Tennessee, who ran for the presidency the last time around, but had a hard time getting anyone to vote for him in the early primaries: Conservative businessman Steve Forbes, who has more money than he can count and therefore the means to stay in the race as long as he wants; Conservative activist Gary Bauer, whose anti-abortion agenda fits in well with his firm belief that America needs a moral reawakening; and finally, good old Dan Quayle, who served as President Bush's vice president from 1988 to 1992 and is arguably the only politician listed above who can be counted on to give voters what they really need during an endless presidential election year -- a good laugh.

And here are just a few past examples (all quotes) of Dan at his verbal best, which I happened to run across on the Internet:

I was recently on a tour of Latin America, and the only regret I have was that I didn't study Latin harder in school so I could converse with those people.

In Memory of Chuy Arreola
Died May 4, 1993

Chuy My Brother, Chuy My Friend
I miss you so much that it hurts from within
With every day that you're gone
My heart skips a beat
But my memories of you are for to always treasure and keep Sometimes I cry when I'm all alone missing you homie -- wishing you were home.
I wish there was something to tell us that you are all right.
And it will always bother me every day and every night.
The things that happen in this world are hard to explain
A lot of it is good and a lot of it is pain
But I must try and be very strong so I can be there for your familia especially your Mom
So if you hear me brother let me tell you this:
You're always in my prayers and your company I'll miss.
So with my love I love you even though you are out of my reach.
God bless you always my brother with all the angels and may you rest in peace.
Dedicated to my homeboy Jesus-Arreola
Love always,
Tu Carnal Alfredo-Gamino

RC tennis is league champ

From River City High School

And one more makes four.

It's now four consecutive Golden Empire League championships for the River City High School tennis team. The Raiders clinched it in the sweetest way possible, with a resounding 7-2 victory over rival Colfax last week. Then, to finish off the team's third straight undefeated league season, R.C. waxed Mesa Verde 9-0. The Raiders close out the '90s with 40 consecutive G.E.L. wins -- a streak that dates back to March of 1996 and is unparalleled in the athletic history of the school.

Against Colfax, senior Aaron Potnick completed his own perfect league season with a 6-2, 6-1 win over the Falcons' Dan Silverman in the #1 boys singles match. In the #2 spot, fellow senior Khampheng Insixiengmay avenged a loss from earlier in the season to Colfax's Tom Fox with a 6-4, 6-0 victory.

In the girls' #2 singles contest, R.C.'s Loan Nguyen won a dramatic 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 battle with Arianna Meija in what turned out to be the day's fifth win for the hosts, thus clinching the overall match. However, fellow girls singles player Khonesavanh Lattasima didn't fare so well in her marathon with Falcon #1 Krissy Fox. The Raider junior lost her first match of the year, fading in the third set of a 6-3, 3-6, 4-6 contest. The other loss for the champions came in mixed doubles, where Ka Yang and Andy Amphonephong fell 8-10.

Both Raider girl teams, Sue Yang and Sokpin Phoung at #1 and Erin Cheechov and Keonakone Lattasima at #2, won by 10-2 scores, while in boys doubles, there was one blowout and one nailbiter. The #2 team of Sisavat Phouanglasy and Casey Insixiengmay shut out their opponents 10-0, while fellow juniors Prak Pich and Huy Truong won 10-9 with a 7 points to 3 tiebreaker at #1.

With the 20 win, 1 loss regular season (12-0 in league) now behind them, the Raiders will turn to the postseason. This week, the league singles and doubles tournament will be held at Lindhurst High School Thursday and Friday. Champions and finalists then qualify for the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III Tournament on May 19 in Stockton. The Section team playoffs will begin May 20, but R.C. has a first-round bye and will not play until a quarterfinal match May 25.

SPORTS INSIDER

The Sacramento Kings shocked the world with their 101-90 stunning victory over the mighty Jazz in front of 19,911 Utah Jazz faithful. Utah, who played the Bulls in the NBA finals last year, crushed the Kings by 30 points on Saturday and it appeared that a series sweep was on the horizon for the Kings. Chris Webber, who played with a bad back, would not allow the Kings to quit. Webber was simply magnificent, scoring 20 points, but more importantly Webber dished out a big dose of physical basketball. Webber dropped Utah guard John Stockton twice during the game that sent a message to the Jazz that the Kings were not going to lay down and be intimidated. I'm a big chicken but if I had my choice of opponents to play in the playoffs I wouldn't pick the Jazz, but on second thought if you want to win the NBA title you might as well start with the best team, it could only get easier!

The Kings, who played awful on Saturday, used that embarrassing loss as a motivation tool to set the tone for this best of five series. The real stars of game two were Scot Pollard, who only scored four points but his three blocked shots were huge and also reserve guard Jon Barry. Barry's hustle was contagious and the Kings responded with a 15-2 run spanning the third and fourth quarters that gave the Kings the lead they never relinquished. Barry was outstanding, scoring 12 points, but his hustle was the energy that lifted the Kings to victory.

Coach Adelman confused the Jazz in the third quarter when he decided to use a three guard lineup featuring Williams, Barry, and "Mad Max" Vernon Maxwell. The results were great because the quick lineup spread the floor and the three point shots were falling and their defense was the best I've seen this season! The Kings held the high scoring Jazz to only 14 points in the fourth quarter. Defense wins games in the NBA!

This gives the new swimmers and their parents a chance to experience an actual competitive swim meet for the first time. The Dolphins have a large contingent of new six and under swimmers this year who have already shown steady improvement with the help of coaches Jason Potnick, Cheryl Alander and Sarah Moore. This year marks the 10th anniversary season for the Dolphins.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

Some school security measure ideas go too far

It's possible to overreact; to get swept up in all the hystrionics, emoting and fingerpointing that goes on following a tragedy as frightening as the one that just occurred at a high school in Colorado.

So as the local school district, students and parents consider how to keep such a thing from happening here, it's important to take a deep breath and make sure that any new security measures the district approves are grounded in reality -- and not just in an effort to appear more concerned and proactive as the next guy.

Local high school students have already kissed their lockers goodbye, bowing to the perceived need to prevent the lockers' use in storing contraband. A proposal to require them to wear ID tags as well would simply be going too far. Fortunately, it does not appear that this proposal will be recommended by district staff.

It is debatable, in fact, whether requiring ID tags on adults at the schools would do much other than further depersonalize the staff at the schools. Would ID tags have prevented the disaster at Columbine -- or even in the one in Stockton, where an outside gunman entered an elementary school to gun down small children?

Might classroom doors that lock from the inside solve more security problems than they create? Might they indeed make it easier for other kinds of problems to occur? These are questions best answered by security professionals.

ID tags and new door locks are examples of concrete actions that might make us feel like we are doing something to make our schools safer. But they deserve a clear head and calm discussion before they are implemented. The most important things for school safety are the hardest "policies" to enforce: as the superintendent said yesterday, the best way to prevent student-instigated violence is to make sure faculty, staff, parents and students keep talking to each other. Communication can help prevent or predict such violence.

As for the rest, locking gates and fixing holes in fences are clearly good ideas. But further clampdowns on either district employees or students need to be carefully weighed against any potential safety benefit.

Concrete plant: taxes & jobs

It was good to see the city approve the concrete recycling plant, we need more co. in the area that provide taxes and jobs.

As for the dust, that should not be a problem, if you notice the old rice mill was torn down and if you were not up on the bridge you would not have known there was a demolition project going on.

The Triple A ball stadium does nothing for the citizens of W.S.

Well it will cost the home owners money, but bring nothing in return. Well maybe a few minimum wage jobs and a good return for the managers and owners.

Talk to any home owner in the Phoenix area and see if you can find one who has benefited from the stadiums built in that area.

All the home owners in Phoenix received was higher taxes and all the teams got the gold.

I noticed the local activist was against the concrete recycling plant.

That is nothing new as activists are always against any co. that will provide jobs and pay taxes.

As for the noise and supposedly dust, no big problem.

I live on Evergreen Ave. and I would surely rather have the concrete plant across the street than the un-regulated apartments that are here. Boom boxes going all during the night, horn honking, tire squealing, car doors slamming and whatever, give me the concrete plant.

Teaching dishonesty

This year River City High School made eight hours of community service a graduation requirement for seniors. Written work (letter of introduction, proposal, journal, short research paper) and an oral presentation are the culmination of the project and part of the requirement. Many community agencies and businesses have been supportive of this endeavor by providing volunteer opportunities to students. This support is greatly appreciated and to be commended.

Unfortunately, however, some students are failing to accept the responsibilities and spirit of this requirement. Simply put, they are cheating and lying. What is even more disturbing is that adults – parents and others – are helping them to cheat. For example, a student of mine recently turned in several parts of the project. Because he is in a limited English class, and because I know his writing ability, I knew immediately that he had not done this work himself. He admitted that his father had done it.

Additionally, a manager for a state agency agreed to help this student (and his brother) by written a letter of evaluation for work the boys had never done. The letter was dated May 14, and the boys were to start volunteering at the agency on May 10. The student mistakenly turned the letter in to me on May 6. Why would a manager fraudulently sign a letter like this? Does he have any personal integrity? In this situation, not once did either of these students ask me for help. Rather, they waited until the last minute (four weeks before the due date) to begin working on this requirement.

Another student, not my own, is reported to have fabricated the whole volunteer experience and allegedly got an adult to sign off on a time sheet for work he never did.

When adults knowingly help students in this way the message is clear – honesty is not important, what the school requires of you is not important, it's okay to cheat, circumvent requirements, and deceive instructors. While as an experienced teacher I know students may cheat, I never imagined that I would have to be so vigilant about their parents and other adults facilitating their deceptions.

Hopefully these are isolated incidents, but I implore this community to take seriously the charge of raising our young people with appropriate values from which we all benefit.

Open primary circumvented?

Has California's open/blanket primary election been rendered null and void by virtually all legislators and Gov. Gray Davis? The national headquarters of both Democrats and Republicans say, in effect, that the cross-voting allowed by Prop. 198 "violates the national charter" of each party; thus, the latest state law enacted at state capitol changes vote count rules so that anyone who votes "other than the straight party ticket" in primary election simply has their votes "not counted," due to some kind of coding.

I thought that in order to overturn the will of the people as in the initiative process the same initiative process had to be employed. If not, what's to stop our state leaders from wiping out the 21-year-old Prop. 13 and other measures passed by a majority of the voting public?

It is a big bluff by the 2 big parties. Imagine either one turning their back of California's 54 electoral votes in the March, 2000 primary or the November, 2000 general election. If our state's 54 votes swings the votes for any candidate in either election, watch that candidate challenge the "no cross-voting rule." And what's so bad about cross-voting in the primary since we've been cross-voting in the general election for who knows how long (?) Will Democrats and Republicans agree to "code out" all votes for their candidates not coming from registered members of their own party come November? Will the slogan in our state/country become, "You're free to vote, but your vote may not be counted." (?)

Do California voters or state lawmakers have the last word on state initiatives? Probably neither, most likely the courts.

Registration of voters has taken a new life during the past week. All ready 125 have signed their names, but there should be many more. Judge Barry and Henry Buckingham are ready at nearly any old time to accommodate voters. There is a possibility of some special elections, in addition to the regular ones, during the coming fall and voters will then be sorry if they cannot not partake in those elections. Some petitions are already being circulated that cannot be signed except by those who have registered this year.

Last Monday William Pothel swore to a warrant for the arrest of R. R. Green on a charge of battery. This was a neighborhood row which took place in the camping grounds near the Northern Electric embankment. When the case came before Judge Barry it was dismissed.

Mrs. Agnes Kinch has again added to her stock in the grocery store on 2nd street. Mrs. Kinch is a widow, raising two children, and this is her only means of making a living for them.

About ten days ago a large plate glass window was broken in the Harbinson building at 3rd and Ann streets by boys who were playing in the neighborhood and who practice throwing rocks to a great extent. The glass cannot be replaced for less than $100, and perhaps a good deal more. This kind of vandalism is to be regretted, for no one will make an effort to better conditions in the town if their property is ruined in this way.

The same gang of young men have been in the habit of throwing rocks at a galvanized building at the rear of the Shaw residence on 2d street. They seem to enjoy the noise the rocks make on the galvanized building, which resembles musketry. Some short time ago when late at night they didn't think any one was watching them they made an assault on this barn while a neighbor took their names as they ran from the scene of destruction. That neighbor is about ready to turn the names of the young men into the hands of the Constable, the Sheriff and the property owners when they may get into trouble. Some property owners don't hesitate to call the names of those young men on the streets.

Mass will be celebrated next Sunday in the Catholic Church on Harriet street by Rev. Father Murphy of Woodland. The services will start at 8:00 a. m. These services are held on every second and fourth Sunday of the month.

The run of fish, particularly of salmon, has eased up during the past few days. Local fishermen believe this is due to the cold spell that has been prevailing. When the weather warms up again a heavy run is expected by the fishermen.

A special call is out for a large attendance at a meeting of the local Red Cross Chapter in the Town Hall this evening. Some important matters will be up for consideration and every member who can possibly come will be welcomed.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN WILL DEDICATE NEW NATIONAL EMBLEM

On Saturday evening, May 18th, the Volunteer Firemen's organization of Washington will dedicate a new flag lately purchased by the fire boys.

A committee of arrangements, consisting of H. C. Scudder, E. B. Moss and J. N. Bennetts, is now working on a lengthy program of entertainment and they promise something entirely new for that evening. Prominent speakers from Yolo and Sacramento Counties will be invited to attend and in addition there will be several numbers of a varied kind.

The newly purchased flag will be unfurled on the Town Hall and the national salute will be given by every one present. It is possible that following the ceremony a dance will be held. In the next issue of the Independent the full program for the evening will be published, and the names of the speakers will be given. The firemen promise an unusual treat at this patriotic affair.

LIBERTY LEAGUE MEETING ENTHUSIASTIC AFFAIR

The regular meeting of the Washington Liberty League held last Wednesday was largely attended and turned out to be one of the best held in the town.

Fred Shaffer, Secretary of the Yolo County Board of Trade, was present and made a ringing speech filled with the fire of patriotism and loyalty.

Mr. Schaffer devotes a great deal of his time to these patriotic affairs and is practicing oratory as he goes along. He is certainly improving rapidly. But in addition he quotes facts and figures to show the net result at the end of the war.

The meeting was presided over by President Frank Korrell.

A Sacramento preacher is making an effort to open a cafeteria in the high school, and is asking the pupils of the school to urge their parents to contribute 50c per year for the purpose.

Most mothers want their boys and girls to come home for a nice hot lunch and they resent the interference of a preacher in this matter.

Are not the Sacramento school authorities able to conduct the affairs of the high school without the interference of a preacher.

FIFTY-EIGHT YOUNG MEN FROM THIS DISTRICT ARE IN U. S. SERVICE

The number of young men from this Supervisor District of Yolo County who have given their services to their country's call and who mostly volunteered before the draft, has been questioned on several occasions.

The showing made is remarkable considering the population, although the showing for the entire county has not been surpassed by any other political or similar division.

Yolo boasts of having given nearly 600 men, but from Washington district fifty-eight are now in service in France or are at the various training camps.

In order to be sure there can be no mistake the names of the men are submitted herewith:

Frank Buckingham, Philip Wolfe, Ernest Curry, Tony Borzone, Frank W. Wilson, Lester S. Strader, Willard Pankost, Frank DeRiso, Jr., Frank Clifton, Edgar Gaskin, Harry Van Baaren, Carl Deutsch, Paul Dupzyk, Thomas W. Eddy, R. Alfred Evans, William Milne.

Percy Eugene, Clarence Harms, J. Casselman, Ernest Berry, Romeo Barry, Albert Ramsey, John Grant, Chas. Ball.

Of the above fifty-eight the following are from Riverbank: Chas. Ball, Wm. Sezekoff, Claude Gallup, Walter Gallup, John Rodrigues, Harold Schriemp.

STOCK STAKED ON SCHOOL GROUNDS WILL BE IMPOUNDED

The practice of staking stock on the school ground at night is becoming objectionable to the school trustees and teachers and the children for the reason that flowers which have been planted by the children are being ruined by the animals.

The trustees feel that the grounds and building would look far better without a fence around them or if any fence is erected it should be one becoming to the building.

Funds for a handsome fence are not at the disposal of the trustees and therefore they object to the ruination above mentioned by stock.

A county law prevails that loose stock can be impounded and their owners fined not less than $15 for each offense.

While the stock staked on the grounds are not loose they are trespassers on the property and fines may be assessed on the owners.

This latter method the trustees intend to follow in getting rid of the nuisance.

WORSE THAN THE "ROCKY ROAD TO DUBLIN"

The piece of roadway extending from the western end of the Electric bridge to West Sacramento headquarters is in a deplorable condition owing to the fact that the macadam placed several years ago has worked loose and is now a menace to horses, tires and human beings.

From the bridge to the crossing of the Oakland-Antioch railroad, that is, about half way to the headquarters, the right of way for the road has never been given for public road purposes. The balance from the crossing to headquarters is a county road.

Supervisor Leinberger advises he cannot repair that portion which has not been made a public highway, but he is willing to do his part if the West Sacramento Company will do its share.

If the West Sacramento Company will donate the right of way he will keep the entire stretch in passable condition at least.

As it is at the present time autoists shudder for their tires when going over this loose rock, and farmers of the district hate to drive over it because the rock gets stuck in their horses hoofs injuring the frogs.

Many persons are now visiting this locality, especially those auto owners from the west who do not know that the best roadway to Sacramento from the Causeway is through Washington.

Something should be done immediately to rectify the condiiton prevailing there now.

Would it not be a good idea now that the people voted on the question of location for the Land fund to call Del Paso Park "The Land Park?"

In the election last Saturday the issue was clean cut and the taxpayers practically selected Del Paso as a site for the Land money.

The people should start immediately and call this park "The Land Park."

BASEBALL CLUB BOYS WILL GIVE DANCE SATURDAY EVENING

In the Town Hall to-morrow evening several of the young men around town will give a ball for the purpose of helping the treasury of their club so that uniforms and other necessary material may be purchased.

Never has Washington been without some good ball players, and even at this writing it has some promising youngsters. Without a club they cannot go ahead to any extent and without proper material they cannot go to any other locality to represent the town. To help them along in their ambition the dance Saturday night should be a financial success and they promise that, in return, they will go out to challenge and beat any similar organization on the coast.

The club is organized with Edward Phillips as manager and John Peek as captain.

A Marysville minister, pastor of a church, is about to leave for France, it has just been announced.

There are a lot of people who would be glad to hear similar reports from other towns.

again, never close your fingers, never be able to father a child," our son was told. When our insurance cut off his therapy, saying further improvement was not likely. it took two safety belts to keep our son from sliding off the wheelchair. He literally could not lift his own hand.

But with the aid of advanced research, medication, and therapy, we were able to bring back the muscles on the backs of his arms. Now, instead of having to be picked up and carried, he could transfer himself from bed to chair – even drive an adapted truck.

Today Roman attends college at U.C. Berkeley, where he also works; and he is the father of a beautiful baby boy. Research helped him, and there is more help on the way.

Movie Superman Christopher Reeve said, in a personal letter to us, "One day Roman and I will stand up from our wheelchairs, and walk away from them forever."

Research is the answer to that great dream. Assembly Bill 750, the Roman Reed Spinal Cord Injury Research Bill, offers a painless way to permanently fund that research. Modeled after New York's unanimously-passed Richter Bill, AB 750 puts a $15 surcharge onto speeding tickets and other traffic violations. That money will go to spinal cord injury research for cure. Car crash, by the way, is the number one cause of spinal cord injury.

Assembly Bill 750 just leaped over its first big hurdle. Sponsored by Assemblyman John Dutra, and co-authored by Senators John Burton and Liz Figueroa, AB 750 was approved by the California Assembly Health Committee on April 6. Next, our bill goes to the Appropriations Committee, and from there to the full body of the assembly itself.

Spinal cord injury costs California a mountain of medical bills: more than one billion dollars every year. The costs in human suffering cannot be measured.

We need your help. As my son Roman puts it, "Please take a stand – so everybody can."

Stand with us. Contact your state assemblyman or woman. Support Assembly Bill 750, the Roman Reed Spinal Cord Injury Research Bill. Thank you.

tage and a guarantee of a fourth game on Friday night. Can the Kings beat the Jazz three consecutive times? I don't think so but if they can some how win game three it would put the pressure on Stockton and the "Mailman" to deliver in game four!

The playoff games are sold out but you can catch the action on channel 31 (7:30 p.m.) on Wednesday. The game on Friday will also be television on channel 31 but the game time has not been announced as of Tuesday morning. GO KINGS!

Next week I'll have my predictions as the NBA gets into the second round of the playoffs. I wanted to give you my picks in the first round but the playoffs started on Friday and I write this column on Monday nights.

The Giants (20-13) are still hanging on to first place, while the A's (16-17) pitching staff has pulled them into second place in the West. The Giants will face a big test this week as Atlanta comes to town mid-week and then they travel to Houston for a weekend series.
